In summary, what does it prohibit us from knowing? Does it forbid us from the good, does it forbid us from being wise?... Such prohibitions should not bind us... But if death surrounds us with its final chains, what good will our inner freedom serve us? The day we come to eat of that brother fruit we will die; such is our sentence...

Die schuldige Schlange versteckt sich in einem Busch und hätte es durchaus tun können; denn Eva, ganz in die Frucht versunken, blickte auf nichts anderes. Es kam ihm vor, als hätte er bis dahin noch nie etwas so Köstliches probiert; entweder weil es wirklich so schmeckte, oder weil er es sich in seiner schmeichelhaften Hoffnung auf erhabenes Wissen eingebildet hatte. Has the serpent perhaps died? It has eaten, and lives, and knows, and speaks, and reasons, and discerns, when up to now it was irrational. Has death been invented only for us?

¿O será que ese alimento intelectual que se nos niega esté reservado solamente a las bestias? Pero el único animal que ha sido el primero en probarlo en lugar de mostrarse avaro de él, comunica con gozo el bien que le ha cabido, cual consejero no sospechoso, amigo del hombre e incapaz de toda decepción y de todo artificio.

De quoi ai-je donc peur? Est-ce que je sais ce que je dois faire dans mon ignorance du bien et du mal, de Dieu ou de la mort, de la loi ou du châtiment? Ici pousse le remède à tout ; ce fruit divin, d'apparence agréable, qui flatte l'appétit, et dont la vertu communique la sagesse. Qui m'empêche d'en prendre et de nourrir mon corps et mon esprit en même temps?
